PARTNERSHIPS TO BOOST TOURISM

A grand success, the CII Partnership Summit and Sunrise Andhra Pradesh Investment Meet witnessed inking of 56 MoUs in the tourism sector

Chief Minister N. Chandrababu Naidu, Tourism Minister Bhuma Akhila Priya, Secretary, Tourism and Culture, Mukesh Kumar Meena, and other dignitaries at the CII Partnership Summit in Visakhapatnam in February 2018.

Andhra Pradesh Tourism signed 56 memorandums of understanding (MoUs), with an investment of ₹7,806 crore, on the first day of the three-day CII Partnership Summit and Sunrise Andhra Pradesh Investment Meet held in Visakhapatnam in February. Under these MoUs, the department is partnering with private investors to create new infrastructure.

"The major focus this time has been on serious investors. We have taken steps to take back land from non-serious investors and give it to committed investors with a strong project blueprint. This will be our strategy going forward," said Bhuma Akhila Priya, Minister for Tourism.

One of the major focus areas of the department is building more water and adventure sports zones. At Mulapadu and in Araku, an adventure training tourism centre is coming up. The Essel Group is coming up with an adventure park on Bhavani Island at ₹500 crore. A Centre of Excellence for Performing Arts is planned at ₹80 crore in Amaravati. Rural tourism and farm stays will be taken up in the Krishna and Visakhapatnam districts.

The department this year is focusing on six key projects. These

BEST BEACH DESTINATION

Andhra Pradesh has bagged the award for Best Destination-Beach Tourism at the PATWA International Awards Ceremony on March 8, 2018 at ITB Berlin. The award was received by Mukesh Kumar Meena, Secretary, Tourism and Culture, Government of Andhra Pradesh. Handed out once a year in March at the world's biggest travel and trade fair, these awards are considered among the most coveted and sought-after in the travel trade.

are the Special Tourism Zone at Madhurawada and INS Viraat aircraft carrier museum in Vizag, Havelock Bridge in Rajahmundry, Bhavani Island in Vijayawada, a beach property at Kakinada Hope Island, and the Gandikota Fort adventure sports zone. ■

APTDC GETS NEW BUSES

Chief Minister N. Chandrababu Naidu along with Minister for Tourism Bhuma Akhila Priya recently flagged off four APTDC Volvo buses in Vijayawada. The new buses will ply the long-distance inter-state routes from Tirupati to cities such as Bengaluru, Chennai, Madurai and Coimbatore. The multi-axle Volvo buses have been purchased at ₹1.30 crore each and have all the modern facilities.

Authentic experiences

If you are heading to Andhra Pradesh this summer, do try to take in local flavour.

Watch young performers learning captivating Kuchipudi in a quaint coastal village, savour succulent Banginapalli, or explore the beautiful temple architecture. Here are a few experiences we highly recommend.

Illustrated by Pooja Sethi Gautam

3 GO ON THE GI FOOD TRAIL

Andhra Pradesh has the coveted Geographical Indication (GI) tag for the succulent Benishan (or Banginapalli mangoes) that have been growing in the state for over 100 years. The thick, red-skinned Guntur Sannam Chilli is another GI food you must try. The divine Tirupati laddoo and rich Bandar laddoo are also on the GI list.

4 HAVE FUN WITH JUMBOS

Jungle lovers can have a date with elephants at Koundinya Wildlife Sanctuary near Horsley Hills (150 kilometres). The sanctuary was set up in 1990 to accommodate elephants who had migrated back to the area after 200 years of living away. Go on an elephant safari for thrills or take a jeep safari to track elephants—a truly educational experience to have.

1 RELISH THE SUMMER FRUITS

The season may be harsh on people in the coastal belt. So why not find ways to cool off? One way is eating summer fruits such as mango, watermelon and palmyra—known for its delicious, cool spongy jelly. The yellowish cashew fruit is another big hit in the dry upland rural areas. Stop anywhere in the state to have the sought-after tender coconut for its sweet water and jelly-like kernel.

2 VILLAGE IS THE WAY TO GO

Pristine, peaceful and lush, rural Andhra Pradesh boasts simple lifestyles and traditional practices. The long stretches of green paddy fields, dusty roads and thatch-roofed homes reveal the true beauty of the land. Sit at a roadside eating joint and sample the local fare, enjoy birdwatching, fishing, bullock cart rides, boating and trekking, or watch artisans making beautiful crafts.

5 A PALEOLITHIC WONDER

If you are on a work trip in Vizag and can only manage a little "vacation time", pick the Borra caves for a day trip. This 150 million years old, naturally created cave complex is a marvel of the middle Paleolithic era. It helps that the caves remain very cold even in the peak of summer. The site is also famous for the amazing sound and light show installed for tourists.

7 LED BY BUDDHA

This Buddha Jayanti, visit Amaravati, the heritage city where Gautama Buddha conducted Kalachakra. Interpreted as the "abode of immortals" in Pali, Amaravati has the Great Buddhist Stupa and 2000-year-old relics of its Buddhist settlement. Also known as the Mahastupa and Deepaladinne (mound of lamps), the 27-metre-high stupa is the biggest stupa in India. Bavikonda and Thotlakonda monasteries in Visakhapatnam are other Buddhist sites you must visit.

6 EXPLORE NEW ATTRACTIONS

Visakhapatnam recently got the new TU 142 Jet Museum at RK Beach. After serving the Indian Navy for 29 years, this jet is now making people understand aircraft technology and equipment like a sonobuoy, propeller, survival kit, anti-submarine missile and data recorder. Another must-do is the new air-conditioned water bus plying on the Krishna at Bhavani Island in Vijayawada.

8 CLIMB TO COOLER CLIMES

For those who see Andhra Pradesh as a high-temperature zone, the state's hill stations are an eye-opener. Famous for coffee plantations, views and lush greenery, these places are perfect summer holiday destinations. Begin with Araku Valley and go on to Lambasingi, Horsley Hills, Tirumala, Ananthagiri, Nallamala Hills and Nagari Hills.

REJUVENATE MIND AND SOUL

The clean air, rich biodiversity and stunning views of surrounding hillocks make Horsley Hills a soothing retreat. This charming holiday spot has attractions to keep visitors perpetually engaged. By Deivanai Arunachalam

Looking for a quiet retreat, away from the tiring routine of city life? Head to laid-back Horsley Hills, 1265 metres above sea level, in Madanapalle taluk of Andhra Pradesh's Chittoor district. The charming hill station derives its name from WD Horsley, a British officer in colonial India who made the destination his home. Although tagged as a 'hill station', Horsley Hills can get as sunny as any of India's tropical metros during summer; the nights, however, are windy and cold. In the same strain, Horsley Hills differs from other hill stations in that it doesn't offer holiday staples such as lakes with boating options, waterfalls, churches or astronomical observatories. It is the place to go, if you wish to reconnect with nature—if you enjoy taking long walks, or appreciate the leemony fragrance of the eucalyptus, or love watching the sunset as twilight trickles down a cluster of clouds. It is an ideal getaway for a solitary writer, an artist looking for picturesque beauty or a bunch of friends to catch up.

CONNECT WITH NATURE

The Andhra Pradesh Tourism Development Corporation's (APTDC) Haritha Hill Resorts, set amid luxuriant tree cover, is a pretty place to stay in Horsley Hills. The Forest Department's Vana Vihar is situated next to the resort. It is a treasure trove of trees that double as a haven for numerous species of birds. It is no wonder then that you wake up to insistent birdsong that reaches a crescendo by 6 am. There are yellow-throated bulbuls, blue-capped rock thrushes, ultramarine fly-catchers, and more for the discerning birdwatcher.

As you enter the forest, there are housed within enclosures little deer, rabbits, peafowl, emus, cockatiels and star tortoises. Besides the mini-zoo, there is a crocodile enclosure, Lake Mansarovar and a nature study centre. The latter has a library and an auditorium, where one can watch videos on wildlife. Products from the forest such as tamarind, sandalwood, spices, honey, and gum are on display too.

OUTSIDE AND UNPLUGGED

The highlights at Horsley Hills include Gaali Banda, the sunset spot, and Valley View. Both locations are a photographer's delight, especially at dawn and dusk. Other places of interest are Highview Point, Koundinya Wildlife Sanctuary and Elephant Reserve, the largest banyan tree in the world and the oldest eucalyptus, the Gurramkonda Fort, Governor's Bungalow, and a beautiful temple of Yenugumallamma.

NAVIGATOR

GETTING THERE

Horsley Hills is well-connected by road and is almost equidistant from Tirupati and Bengaluru (140 km). The nearest airport is at Bengaluru, and railhead at Madanapalle. The station has train connectivity with Tirupati, Hyderabad, Chittoor and Guntakal.

WHERE TO STAY

APTDC has 54 rooms/cottages at Horsley Hills, including the Governor's Bungalow. There are two conference halls for work-cum-leisure trips, a spa and a swimming pool. There are restaurants and bars too.

Thrill seekers can enrol for a session with Freakouts—an outfit that has tied up with APTDC and facilitates adventure activity, right outside the resort. It offers high rope games, trampoline, bike riding, and wall climbing. ■

ON A UNIQUE CRAFT TOUR

The quaint city of Madanapalle, near Horsley Hills, is known for its silk brocade sarees. The city has about 20,000 saree weavers. We met with Saralamma, who earns ₹1,200 per saree that she weaves. On average she churns out two sarees a week. "The cost of manufacturing a silk brocade saree is at least ₹6,000. These sarees are then sold for ₹10,000 in showrooms," says Chandrasekar, who owns Bhargava Silk Weavers. The manufacturer and the retailer share the margin, he adds. With over 25 years of experience in the field, Chandrasekar supplies sarees to several showrooms, including those in Venkatagiri and Kanchipuram.

Another famous craft of the region is terracotta pottery. Over 30 terracotta artist families live in Angallu village, 6 kilometres from the city of Madanapalle. The potters create beautiful décor and utility articles such as wind chimes, pots, vases, jugs, fire ovens, lamps and toys. Unsolicited, we step into Reddappa's house, who willingly engages us in a quick demonstration of how he uses the wheel, shapes his clay and fires the products in his backyard.

THE GOD OF ALL THINGS

A VISIT TO TIRUPATI IS AN OPPORTUNITY IN ITSELF—ONE OF THE RARE OCCASIONS WHEN YOU GET TO WITNESS RELIGION, HERITAGE, ART, ARCHITECTURE, NATURE AND LEGENDS. AMONG THE MOST SACRED PLACES FOR HINDUS, TIRUPATI HAS ALL THINGS GRAND, FROM MAGNIFICENT TEMPLES TO EXTRAORDINARY STONES, ALL WITH A STORY. DEIVANAI ARUNACHALAM VISITS THE ABODE OF LORD VENKATESWARA IN TIRUPATI TO ABSORB A BIT OF EVERYTHING.

LORD VENKATESWARA HAS A SOFT CORNER FOR HIS WIFE, GODDESS PADMAVATY.

An ardent devotee knows that his prayer will be answered if he approaches Her first. She deftly handles the case on his behalf—when Padmavaty discusses the request with Venkateswara, He readily grants it. After all, isn't She superior to any of us? The practice, therefore, is to visit the Padmavaty temple at Tiruchanur, five kilometres from Tirupati, before heading for the big meeting with the Lord Himself at Tirumala.

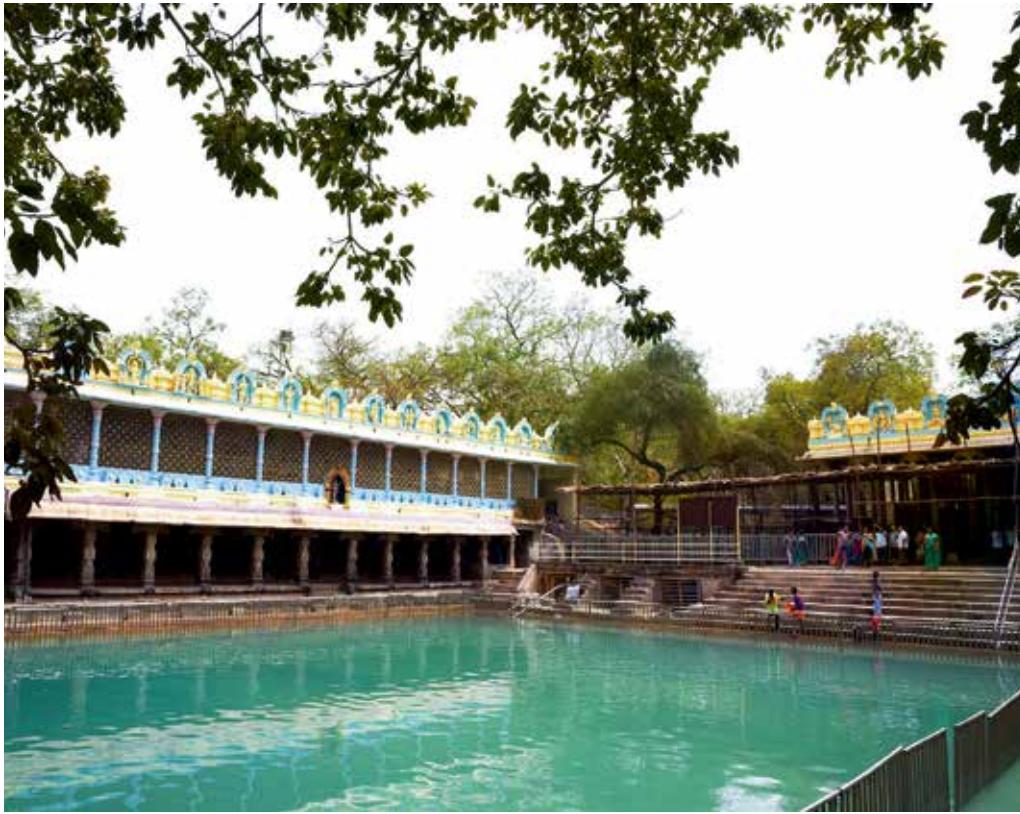

The astonishing Sri Venkateswara temple, a Lord Vishnu shrine, is situated on top of Tirumala Hill, while the town of Tirupati is at the foot. The uphill drive to Tirumala takes about 30 minutes. Adjoining the winding road are forests, home to varied flora and fauna. While covering this beautiful stretch, we witness a graceful deer, followed by a troop of gleeful monkeys. They gambol towards us, arranging themselves as if they are the audience to a curious show by humans in a car. We reach Tirupati, one morning in mid-March, still misty at 8.45 a.m.

The Brahma Purana states that Tirupati has an astounding 66 crore water bodies. Every pond, lake or waterfall can either cure ills, infuse devotion, produce detachment, endow prosperity, or liberate the soul. The most distinguished of them all is the Swami Pushkarini, the pond that lies within the premises of the Sri Venkateswara temple. History abounds with instances when taking a dip in the pond has shorn the devotee of the most complicated problems and heinous sins.

According to legend, Lord Venkateswara was not the first deity to make Tirumala His abode. The chief deity was Varaha—the boar avatar of Lord Vishnu. Since Venkateswara was moving into the residence of Varaha, He granted Varaha the distinction of receiving the devotee first. So, we visit the Varaha shrine, and start for the main temple. The circuitous walk could take about two hours, depending on the crowd.

During Brahmotsavam, the wait in the queue could stretch to 10 hours. The crowd gets tougher to handle as you get closer to the sanctum. Amidst a swirling sea of people, you get a glimpse of the

RELIGION AND BEYOND

Akasha Ganga is a perennial waterfall that lies three kilometres to the north of the main temple. Tirumalai Nambigal, a devotee of the Lord, undertook the arduous trek to the waterfall every day to fetch water for the Lord's tirumanjanam (a ritual where holy water is showered over the deity). The practice of using this precious water for the Lord's daily shower continues to this day—the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) laid water lines from the waterfall to the temple when they took over the administration.

A revered water body in Tirupati is Chakra Teertham that has many legends attached to it. Visiting this place is considered as good as touching the Lotus Feet of the Lord, an act that relieves the devotees of their travails. Silathoranam, the unusual geological arch—the only one of its kind in Asia—is nearby.

About 25 feet long and 10 feet tall, this rock is over 2,500 million years old, and formed due to erosion by streams and other natural forces.

Near every prominent temple dedicated to Lord Vishnu exists one dedicated to Shiva. Tirupati is no exception. The gate guardian and mount of Lord Shiva, a majestic bull called Nandi, welcomes you into Kapileswara Swamy temple, at the foot of Tirumala. The main deity, Kapileswara, and Goddess Kamakshi, along with the luminaries of the Hindu pantheon, Lakshmi Narayana, Rukmini, Satyabama, and Venugopalaswamy, bless pilgrims headed for Lord Venkateswara's abode. There is a separate shrine dedicated to Nammazhvar, a supreme devotee of Lord Vishnu.

Kapila Teertham, the holy pond in the temple, receives its inflow during the rainy season from a waterfall in the Seshachalam hills. The steep downhill torrent often brings with it serpents that glide over visitors waiting to have a dip in the waterfall. However, during summer the pond is hardly frightening, and more like a swimming pool, replete with the smell of chlorine.

Tirupati is where every store, establishment, restaurant and tea stall is named after the Lord. It is no wonder, then, that the zoological park housing over a thousand animals is called Sri Venkateswara Zoo. The park has a theme to it—the role of animals in mythology and in the sacred texts is highlighted prominently. The zoo also gives one the option to adopt animals—although not in

HOW TO REACH

Tirupati is well-connected to all major cities by air. It is accessible by road and rail; it takes 10 hours by road from Hyderabad and three hours from Chennai to reach the city.

WHERE TO STAY

Comfortable places to stay in at Tirupati include Marasa Sarovar Premiere, Minerva Grand, Keys Vihas, Bhima's Residency and APTDC's Haritha hotels and resorts.

WHAT TO EAT

Being a temple town, it is easy to find restaurants that serve pure vegetarian food as the TTD discourages the intake of non-vegetarian food before entering the temple. Many hotels cater to the non-vegetarian palate too, offering both south and north Indian cuisines.

the literal sense of the word. You can choose to pay for the food and care of an animal of your choice for a fixed period.

Venkateswara Museum is an exciting place to go to if you enjoy history, religion and architecture. Spread over 1.25 lakh sq. ft., the museum is open seven days a week and entry is free.

The Regional Science Centre at Tirupati is an interesting option for science buffs. The centre has a lot to offer and is an ideal field trip destination for school students and adults. There are sections devoted to illusion, technology, popular science and the universe. A planetarium, an auditorium, a science exposition hall and a 3D theatre are other attractions.

TTD offers a package tour of the lesser-known temples in Tirupati. This covers the Govindaraja Swamy temple, the Kodhandarama Swamy temple, the Goddess Padmavaty temple, and the Kalyanavenkateswara temple.

DIVINE FOOD

The Tirupati laddoo is a delicacy that's unique to the Lord. The quality and proportion of ingredients—gram flour, sugar, ghee, sugar candy, cardamom, cashew and raisins—shape its exclusivity. A staggering 20 tonnes of laddoos are produced daily at the huge kitchen near Tirumala. The laddoo was introduced as naivedyam (food offered to God) in the temple during the British era. Before this, the naivedyam was a sweet made of jaggery and rice, called atherasam or aresu. Today, the Tirupati laddoo is a Geographical Indication, which bestows on the TTD the sole right to produce and distribute the sweet. Tirupati vada (made from black urad lentils) is another famous divine food offered as naivedyam at the temple.

GETAWAYS FROM TIRUPATI

If you get the time to visit other interesting places around Tirupati, visit the Talakona waterfall. About 60 kilometres away, this fall is in full spate between November and January. A popular getaway for adventure seekers, it has steep climbs and slippery slopes. Talakona gushes down a height of 270 feet in a zone declared a biosphere reserve. The reserve also has other waterfalls, including Gujjana and Gundala Kona. Since every waterfall in the region has religious significance, some suggest that sporting activity is best avoided. The other landmarks are Horsley Hills, also called Andhra Ooty, and Chandragiri Fort. The latter is a must-visit for heritage lovers. The 11th century fort has a museum showcasing metal and stone sculptures and a laser show in the evenings. ■

EXQUISITE TALES ON FABRIC

The prime centres of kalamkari art are Sri Kalahasti and Pedana in Machilipatnam. At these creative hubs, artists create magic with their bamboo pens, lively motifs and natural dyes, says Deivanai Arunachalam

Flamboyant birds pose with their plumes spread out across six yards of fabric. A proud peacock boasts its resplendent quills on a bedspread. A swan bends down coyly on a stole. A herd of elephants rush across a curtain. The fish decide that a handbag is their safest bet to display their sunray tailfins on. Such has been the transformation in kalamkari design which was restricted to mythological renderings in the days of yore.

The motifs, though, are not the only change kalamkari has seen over the centuries. The age-old, attractive form of art was predominantly practised by men. In recent years, thanks to self-help groups, women have increasingly taken to the art. Making a single kalamkari work involves as many as 17 stages with the cloth being washed at every stage. You can witness the process in Sri Kalahasti and Machilipatnam (Pedana) in Andhra Pradesh.

DIFFERENCE IN MEANS

While the Sri Kalahasti style involves drawing and filling in the motifs with a pen (kalam) made of bamboo, the Machilipatnam style does the exquisite art with blocks. Both the forms use vegetable dyes. A painter takes as long as three months to complete a handmade Kalahasti-style kalamkari fabric. In Machilipatnam, as many as a hundred pieces of similar fabric can be replicated in a day. The Machilipatnam kalamkari evolved under the Mughals and the sultans of Golconda. Several artists have won national acclaim for their remarkable work on cloth—some of their masterpieces are the tree of life, depictions from Lord Krishna's life and grandiose representations of mythical animals.

The motifs in kalamkari are largely influenced by nature—parrots, peacocks, elephants, swans, creepers and floral designs, except that the Machilipatnam style is more intricate. Kalahasti artists have a greater inclination towards mythological themes and a tendency to embellish their designs with ornate brush strokes. Both the styles have grown adventurous with the palette—while

Over a thousand families in Kalahasti are dependent on kalamkari for a living. The community has several success stories that revolve around the financial independence that the art form has bestowed on the women. At the artists' workshop, you see curious liquids bubbling in cauldrons. The cloth is bleached to produce the desired yellowish-white tinge that is conducive to taking on the ink. It is treated again to ensure that the dyes don't smudge in the processes that follow.

Natural dyes are produced from scratch. The cloth is washed in cold water and sun-dried. The design is then inked on the fabric. The motifs are filled with colours, leaving areas of white that will subsequently be infused with colour when the fabric is boiled in another hue.

JOURNEY OF THE ART

At a time when hand-painted kalamkari was languishing, self-help groups came to the fore. Modern design fused with ancient methods. The traditional panels with mythological drawings soon incorporated contemporary themes. Although kalamkari was traditionally attempted on cotton fabric, today, we see that the artists have begun experimenting with silk, cotton-silk, chiffon and even georgette. Both Sri Kalahasti and Machilipatnam styles of kalamkari have been awarded Geographical Indications, preventing their production in other locations.

Today, a wide variety of kalamkari products, such as sarees, scarves, dupattas, blouses, wall hangings and running fabric, are made. At the Rural Handicrafts Centre at Mittakandriga, three kilometres ahead of Sri Kalahasti on National Highway 47, these products register good sales. A simple kalamkari saree costs about ₹3,000, while an exquisitely designed Tussar silk saree costs as much as ₹14,000; the most expensive kalamkari product is priced at ₹25,000. A grand wall hanging depicting Krishna steering Arjuna's chariot is priced at ₹4,000. "Pilgrims travelling between Tirupati and Kalahasti (famed for its Rahu-Ketu puja) drop by at the centre," says the manager, Madhavi. "Despite limited advertising, the centre has managed to rake in impressive revenues." ■

KALAMKARI MOTIFS ARE INFLUENCED BY NATURE AND RELIGIOUS TEXTS. KALAHASTI ARTISTS HAVE A GREATER INCLINATION TOWARDS MYTHOLOGICAL THEMES AND A TENDENCY TO EMBELLISH THEIR DESIGNS WITH ORNATE BRUSH STROKES.

LEPAKSHI ANANTAPUR

A charming village historically significant for India, Lepakshi is a trove of fascinating archaeological sites, beautiful ancient temples and rich culture. Founded in AD 1535 by Maharaja Aliya Rama Raya of the Vijayanagara empire, the place is today known for three famous temples and a small hillock shaped like the shell of a tortoise, Kurma Saila. The temples are a magnificent example of timeless art and architecture. Lepakshi's other attractions include a large monolithic idol of Nandi made of granite, wall paintings depicting the scenes from the Ramayana and Mahabharata, a hanging pillar and Durga Paadam.

The festival also had entertainment activities in the evenings.

BOAT FESTIVAL, NAGAYALANKA

JANUARY 13-14

The month of January is famous for traditional festivals like Sankranthi. On these festive occasions, localities in Andhra Pradesh spend time on various games and sports. One such sport is boat racing. This January, the Andhra Pradesh Tourism Authority organised a two-day boat competition on the River Krishna at Nagayalanka. The participants came from different places. Each day ended with colourful performances.

GANDIKOTA UTSAVALU, KADAPA

JANUARY 21-23

The hidden Grand Canyon of India, Gandikota is a village on the right bank of the River

Pennar. The place, with a huge fort, stunning gorge, lakes, temples, beautiful landscape and wild forests, is endowed with vast natural resources, and is a sight to behold. Every year, the Government of Andhra Pradesh with Andhra Pradesh Tourism Authority organises Gandikota Utsavalu at the fort. The festival brings extravagant entertainment to the people, and spreads awareness about the fort and its rich history.

FESTIVALS

▲ GLOBAL SHANTI, BUDDHIST HERITAGE FESTIVAL, AMARAVATI | FEBRUARY 3-5

Amaravati, the capital of Andhra Pradesh, turned into a perfect platform to pray for world peace during this spiritual event. The festival was organised to highlight the city's links to Buddhism. The three-day festival had spiritual sermons, insightful discussions and cultural programmes. It began on a colourful and devotional note, as a large number of Buddhist monks converged on the city. There was a collective chant led by senior monks, and a peace rally with about 1,000 monks. The event was livestreamed, inviting people to connect, and showcased fascinating aspects of Buddhist heritage.

► DHOOL RURAL SPORTS, KURNOOL | FEBRUARY 23-25

An interesting event and a new initiative taken by the state government, Dhol Rural Sports celebrated many traditional sports played in Indian villages. Around 1,500 sportspersons from all over Andhra Pradesh participated in the event that had races, games of volleyball, basketball, kabaddi and kho-kho, and a bullock cart race. Cultural programmes were organised in the evenings with artists such as Bhavana, Kamma Jethmalani, Vishnu Priya and Archana Shastray presenting mesmerising performances.

◀ INDIAN PERFORMING ART SHOW,
KURNOOL | MARCH 3-5

Performance art is a genre that enriches the faith of the people in their heritage and sustained ancient traditions. To preserve this genre, Andhra Pradesh Tourism Authority organised a two-day event, the Indian Performing Art Show, in Kurnool. Artistes from different parts of India presented unique shows for the audience. The objective was to promote a variety of performing arts, local and national talent. The festival featured Sivamani, nationally renowned sitarist Ravi Chary and popular Bollywood music composer and singer Sangeet Haldirup. The folk performance group from Odisha, Sambalpuri and India's Got Talent fame, Prince Dance Group also performed at the festival.

RETAIL THERAPY

Vijayawada has many malls, bustling markets and local shopping areas offering the best of ethnic and contemporary ware.
By Shibani Bawa

Vijayawada may be a small city, yet will not disappoint shopaholics. There is literally something for everyone. On one hand you have swanky malls stocked up with a few international brands, on the other, there are old shopping streets where you can purchase handicrafts, handloom sarees, pearls, silver jewellery and semi-precious stones as well. Although there is a range of products that you can buy, the city is best known for Andhra Pradesh's heritage items. Here's our shopping guide to get you to the right stores and pick the best.

STREET N SMART

SHOPPING STREET AT BESANT ROAD

If you happen to be in Vijayawada, shopping at Besant Road is a must at least once. Although it is a busy trade centre, tourists also frequently visit this area. Being one of the oldest shopping streets in the city, it rightfully reflects an old-world charm since some of the shops have been around for more than 80 years. The area is a tad congested but makes for a fun experience with an array of cloth stores, gold shops, and those selling accessories and other knickknacks that can keep you busy for hours. You can try your bargaining skills on pushcart sellers offering bangles and trinkets. Bakeries and restaurants serving western, as well as delicious local cuisine, make for ideal pitstops while you're on a shopping spree. A dynamic place, this is where you can be a part of city's hustle and bustle.

A GOOD MIX AT BANDAR ROAD

Bandar Road is the business hub of the city and home to sprawling malls and clothes shops. With options such as Shoppers Stop, Lifestyle and Aishwarya Silks one can splurge on a comprehensive range of brands and products such as ethnic apparel, western outfits, designer wear, perfumes and accessories.

HIGH-END BOUTIQUES AT M.G. ROAD

Mahatma Gandhi Road, popularly known as M.G. Road, is one of the most prime areas of Vijayawada. The best malls, showrooms of major brands and local designers of the city are located here. Besides western wear, it is a great place for buying ethnic clothes. Head to TBZ for an upmarket jewellery shopping experience or to Raavee Couture for designer wear. M.G. Road is also a good place to buy handicraft items made of stone, silver, marble, wood and metal. Shoppers interested in art can check out the Kalamkari paintings that depict mythological eras with creations of Hindu Gods and Goddesses.

SWANKY MALLS

There are three major malls in Vijayawada. PVP Square Mall is the biggest and considered to be the best shopping mall in the city. Here you can literally buy anything you want from jewellery to apparel, accessories to household goods. Besides some multi-national stores, the major attraction to Ripples Mall is the PVR multiplex where you can catch the latest movies. Finally, Trendset Mall has been the talk of the town with four levels of shopping, a food court and an entertainment zone with a range of games for children.

MUST DO, MUST TRY

Located in the Krishna district of Andhra Pradesh, Vijayawada has always been a prominent commercial centre of the state. The district has seven handicraft clusters known for producing the best of kalamkari paintings, imitation jewellery, musical instruments, Kondapalli toys and papier-mâché. Vijayawada is a big market for not just these products, but also those from clusters outside the district. When you are done exploring the shopping streets and malls for these products and more, do try the popular local delight, biryani and other authentic Andhra delicacies like laddoo made from coconut, roasted urad dal and jaggery, pachadi (an Andhra-style chutney that goes really well with idli and dosa), and seafood curries. The spiciest of all South Indian cuisines, Andhra cuisine makes ample use of green chillies, tamarind, tomatoes and curry leaves, so you are sure to have a memorable gastronomic experience. Before leaving, pick powdered spices like sambhar and rasam to create authentic flavours when cooking Andhra cuisine at home. ■

SOUVENIRS

■ Kalamkari is a traditional art form that involves vegetable dyed block-painting of a fabric. Since it is produced at the nearby town of Pedana in Krishna district, it makes for a wonderful souvenir to buy.

■ Mangalagiri sarees, which are local to Andhra should be on the top of your shopping list. These sarees are handwoven in Mangalagiri, a town in Guntur district, near Vijayawada. Take your pick from fine cotton or soft silks that are guaranteed to look elegant on any occasion.

■ Avakkai has to be the one food item in your shopping bag, as it contains the essence of the delicious cuisine of Andhra Pradesh. Any meal in the state is not complete without this delicious mango pickle. Its spicy and tangy flavour will leave you licking your fingers.

■ Kondapalli toys are one of the most famous symbols of Vijayawada. These handcrafted toys are made in a village of the same name, around 25 km from the city. A trip to the village is recommended to witness the process of carving and painting these beautiful toys.

For someone planning a visit to Andhra Pradesh, my recommendation would be the port city of Vizag. The place has so much to offer—beautiful beaches, famous temples, ancient Buddhist sites and a scenic valley. There's a distinct freshness in the air with tourists thronging the beach and chasing waves, and children enjoying camel rides. One should not miss the delicious breakfast of typical Andhra-style dosa. Sample the seafood, curries, and muri mixture and aratikaya bajji at Vizag's beaches. There's so much you can do in this buzzing city.

YAMINI KRISHNAMURTHY

As an ardent lover of Indian classical dance, my favourite place in Andhra Pradesh is Kuchipudi. It's a small heritage village in Krishna district where almost every household has a Kuchipudi artiste. My first visit to this culturally rich place was when I was a young girl. It was a truly inspirational experience, and gave me a sense of belongingness. So, be it for the love of classical dance or music or even otherwise, I think you should visit this quaint village. Book accommodation at Vijayawada as the village does not have many stay options.
